Profile

I am a hardworking and self-motivated individual with a proven track record delivering projects in the voluntary and community sector, private sector, and public sector.

I have excellent organisation and communication skills meaning that I excel at leading a team and ensuring all projects are completed on schedule. In my previous role I was responsible for bid writing for the organisation. I am looking to take on new challenges including managing multiple projects simultaneously and leading a bigger team. I am confident that with my experience and expertise, I would be an asset to your team. The depth and breadth of my career has provided me with many transferable skills, namely project management and stakeholder engagement.
